Song Of Rain

Words by Keiichiro Kodama
& San Motegi
Music by Keiichiro Kodama
Performed by HUSHBYRD

This autumn, we had lots of rain here in Yatsugatake. Watching rain drops hitting the deck surface of our studio, eventually it turned into a song melody.

Rain is dropping on the strings of my mind
Let the melody for you to come out
Starting in pianissimo
Cause your heart is subtle in blue

I am listening to the drops of rain
Sound of ripples take my heart away
Are you watching and feeling too
Rain will bring my heart to you

Sound of rain
Reminds of pain
Soon you will know
Rain drops keep falling like your tears

When I saw you at the park I lived by
You seemed so lonely looking up into the trees
Missing your home where you left your past
You said you want to go back home

Trees often tell me what they want me to do
I try to comfort them with what I have learned
I wish I could do the same for you
Soften pain of you with this song

Oh～ falling of the rain
Oh～ blowing of the wind
Here makes the melody
To cease your hurt at ease

Wind is passing through the strings of my mind
Let the melody for you to come out
Stroking in affectso(=愛情を込めた)
Is your heart still in blue

I am watching the winds cross the trees
With the rhythm making leaves to fly
Now you see the sky above
The light is tapping on the ground

Sound of wind
Softens pain
Soon you will know
Rain drops clear the sky in blue
